

“With Heart, With Head and With Hand”

A COLLECTION OF ART, CRAFT AND DESIGN

Cork City Library, Douglas Branch

The Exhibition Space in the Douglas Branch of Cork City Library will be given over for the month of June, 2012, to showcase the work of Michael Haugh, who recently completed an academic year of full-time studies as a mature student at St. John’s Central College. His studies at StJCC demanded that he use all his mental, emotional and physical resources so hence the title of the exhibition.

The collection will cover the full range of subjects and themes included in StJCC’s FETAC Level 5, full-time course in Art, Craft and Design (use of heart, hand and head respectively!). In addition, a selection of art printmaking will be on display; this work was carried out by the student in 2011 as part an evening course undertaken at Colaiste Stiofan Naofa, Cork.

The Visitors’ Book will allow viewers to comment on the work; comments are most welcome as they will help to identify areas of activity where there might be opportunities for the recently graduated student to continue to produce.

Much of the work will be offered for sale and all purchases will be greatly appreciated.

Selection of Work Ready for Display

The Exhibition will be launched by St John’s Central College’s Art, Craft & Design Course Coordinator, Ray Lonergan on Thursday, 14th June, 2012. The launch will start at 6.30pm. All are welcome and refreshments will be provided.
